SITUATION

The property is set in a convenient edge of village position on the outskirts of Colyford, within the East Devon National Landscape and close to the Jurassic Coast.

The nearby coastal towns of Seaton, Sidmouth and Lyme Regis provide a range of beaches and leisure opportunities, while the historic market town of Colyton, approximately 2 miles away, offers day to day amenities including shops, schooling and medical facilities. Axminster, about 6 miles distant, provides mainline rail connections to London Waterloo.

DESCRIPTION

This impressive detached former stone and thatch farmhouse is thought to have origins dating back to 1480, retaining a wealth of period detail. Features include flagstone floors, timber windows, exposed beams, plank and muntin walling, a rare Beer stone fireplace dated 1613 and a substantial inglenook with bread ovens.

The ground floor is arranged around a central hall with cloakroom and boot room, leading to a dining room with Tudor fireplace and a double aspect sitting room. A study links to a further sitting room opening to the farmhouse kitchen with four oven Aga and fitted units. A utility and pantry are accessed to the rear.

On the first floor, five double bedrooms extend across the front elevation, all with en suite facilities, including a particularly spacious principal suite with freestanding bath and separate shower. The layout offers flexibility for family use or guest accommodation having been previously used as a B&B.

GARDENS

The formal gardens are planted to the front of the house surrounded by low walls, this attractive space has two areas of lawn surrounded by well-stocked flower beds and shrubs. To the rear of the house the large lawned area is surrounded by mature trees with a raised vegetable area to one side. In all the property extends to just over ½ acre.

TRIPLE GARAGE/WORKSHOP

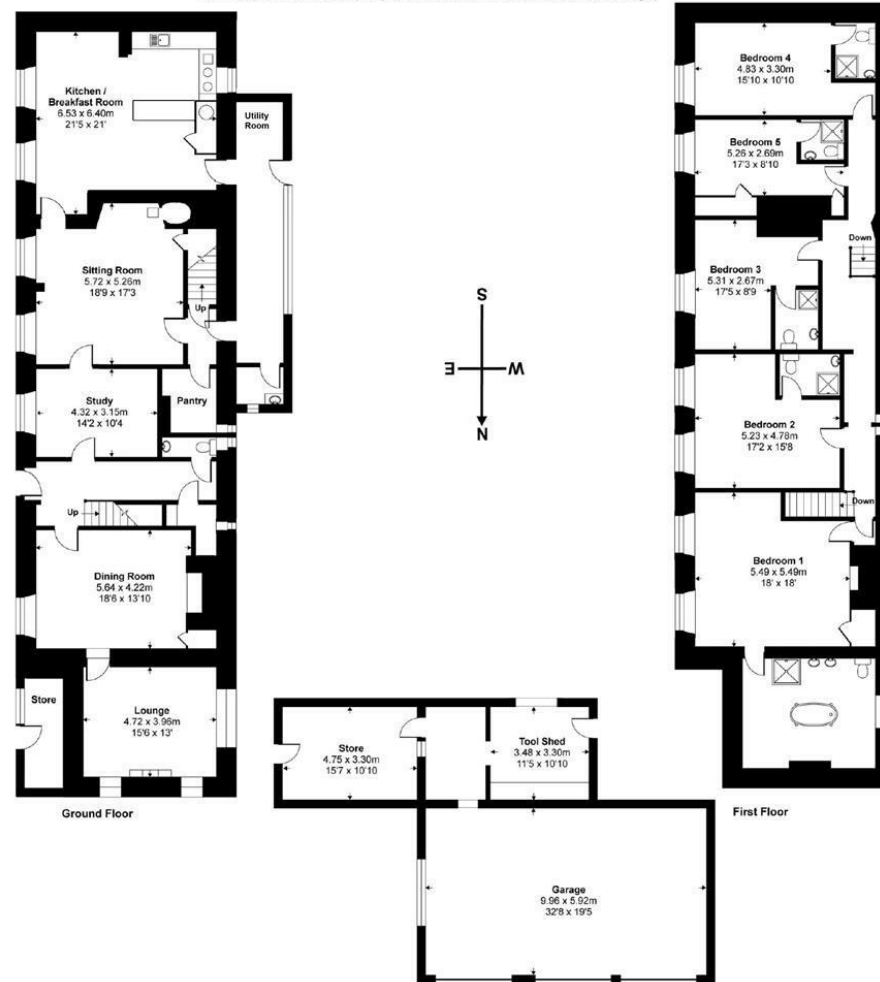

A shared access leads to an extensive parking area to the rear of the property and a substantial triple garage building. The garage provides three bays with parking in front and connects to a large workshop and stores to the rear, offering excellent storage or workspace potential. A further area to the side is currently used as a patio but could be adapted for additional parking if required.
