Introducing...

Culmington Farm, Culmington, Ludlow, Shropshire, SY8 2DB

Set amidst the gentle rolling countryside of South Shropshire, Culmington Farm presents a rare opportunity to acquire a distinguished Grade II listed farmhouse of considerable scale, complemented by beautiful gardens, pastureland and excellent facilities for an equestrian lifestyle.

Extending to approximately 7494sq ft and set within 2.62 acres, this is a home that perfectly balances heritage, space and rural tranquillity, all within easy reach of the highly regarded market town of Ludlow.

Believed to date from the mid-19th century and lovingly held by the same family for over seven decades, the house exudes a quiet grandeur. Its handsome double-fronted facade hints at the elegance and volume within, where a wealth of original features sit effortlessly alongside the comforts of modern living. The accommodation unfolds across four floors, offering wonderfully versatile living space suited to both family life and entertaining on a generous scale. At its heart lies an inviting kitchen, breakfast and family room, designed for relaxed, everyday living, while a series of beautifully proportioned reception rooms—including a striking drawing room with inglenook fireplace—offer a more formal setting when required.

Across the house, there is a palpable sense of light and flow, with three reception rooms providing flexibility to tailor the space to individual lifestyles.

The upper floors offer six spacious bedrooms, arranged to provide both comfort and privacy, making the property equally suited to large families, guests or multi-generational living.

Beyond the house, the grounds are a defining feature—thoughtfully arranged, private and rich in possibility.

A sweeping approach leads to an extensive range of outbuildings, including garaging, workshop space and a versatile gym and granary, offering scope for a variety of uses.

For those with equestrian interests, the property is particularly appealing. Discreetly positioned stabling and hardstanding are accessed via a traditional five-bar gate, opening into gently sloping pastureland, ideal for grazing horses or ponies.

The land is bordered by a tributary of the River Corve and enjoys far-reaching views across unspoilt countryside, creating a setting that is both peaceful and inspiring.

Surrounding the house, the wraparound gardens are beautifully matured, featuring expanses of lawn, established planting, a productive vegetable garden and a tranquil pond. Several secluded seating areas and a charming paved terrace provide perfect spots for al fresco dining and summer entertaining.

Location

Culmington is a sought-after South Shropshire village, known for its strong community feel and scenic surroundings within the Corvedale, close to the Shropshire Hills National Landscape.

The historic market town of Ludlow (approx. 5.9 miles) provides an excellent range of independent shops, eateries and everyday amenities, while nearby Craven Arms offers convenient rail links.

The surrounding countryside is ideal for walking, riding and outdoor pursuits, further enhancing the property's lifestyle appeal.
