

56, Station Road,
Brough, Gilberdyke, HU15 2ST
Guide Price £330,000

An exciting opportunity to acquire a substantial period home, believed to date from circa 1890, and offering tremendous scope for renovation and improvement.

Priced attractively to reflect the modernisation required, this characterful property provides generous and versatile accommodation, including spacious reception rooms, a kitchen through dining area and separate utility room.

To the first floor are four well-proportioned bedrooms, an en-suite and family bathroom. A staircase rises to the attic space, which benefits from roof lights and provides useful additional space.

Outside, the circa one-acre plot is a particular feature. The grounds have recently been cut back but offer excellent scope for landscaping and improvement, while an outbuilding provides further useful space.

The property stands adjacent to the railway station, offering convenient access to rail services.

The current owner had intended to undertake the renovation themselves, but a change in circumstances now presents an opportunity for a new purchaser to take the project forward. With its circa 1890 origins, period character, substantial proportions and generous grounds, this is a fantastic opportunity to create a distinctive family home and really put your own stamp on the property.

A rare renovation opportunity where viewing is essential to appreciate the scale and potential on offer.
